

ABSTRACT

An apparatus includes a support surface having a seat portion and a back portion, wherein the seat portion and the back portion form a non-planar surface. The seat portion has an aperture opening toward the back portion so that when a human is supported on the support surface the human's anus is positioned over the aperture. A method includes supporting the human on the support surface and accessing the human through the aperture in the support surface.